An examination of this document must convince every unbiased reader that Memphis presents c'aims no city below her on the river can do to be the starting point of the great southern transcontinental railroad.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Howe, of Wisconsin, to-day attracted a very large audience to the senate, to hear what he had to say about the Democratic party and the de factor President. The affair had been advertised for several days, so that, although the senator has but little of reputation as a public man, and is generally about as useless as a man well can be in his position, he drew well. His theme was the catch of the occasion. Everybody was anxious to know how sion. Everybody was anxious to know how The temperance movement is sweeping over the country, carrying everything before it. The excitement and enthusiasm here in Memphis exists elsewhere with tenfold intensity. It is at white-heat in Washington City. Meetings are held in various parts of the city nightly, and great interest is being taken in it by all classes. Nowhere, however, hear the result hear so remarkable as in least the compromise states and from the war of 1812 to nullification, the United States bank affair, the compromise THE Agence Russe, of St. Petersburg, considers the alleged proposal of Prince Bismarck, that Russia should indicate beforehand the points of the treaty she was willing should be discussed, as unlikely to affect a settlement.

And right here the thought occurs to me if Key's Democracy damns him in Howe's estimation, what the devil is to become of the real imon-pure Democrats? But enough of lowe. Conkling is next on the list for a speech. He, however, it is said, will confine himself to the President and his administration of affairs. He will not say anything about the poor Democrats. He may have use for some of them when he presents him-self before the New York legislature next year for re-election. There are a few Hayes fellows in New York State who threaten to fellows in New York State who threaten to give him trouble, and by a discreet silence now he may be able to woo and win one or more of the party which Howe, in his previously prepared wrath, labelled to-day as worse than the devil. Conkling will skin Hayes in the course of a no doubt able speech, and much to the rejoicing of Howe's bete noir, the honest Democracy. He may introduce a few new facts, indeed it is most likely he will, as I have no idea that in stuffing ikely he will, as I have no idea that in stuffing Howe he gave him all that he had of food and fodder. The effect of this will be, I understand, to show that the Texas and Pacific company show that the Texas and Pacific company have no valid title to that part of their railroad line within the State of Texas; that its pretended title to that line, its franchise, lands and tenements, was acquired by means of various decisions rendered by Judge Joe Bradley, of the supreme court (aliunde Joe), against the Memphis and El Paso railrond, sitting in Newark, New Jersey, for the western circuit of Texas; that Judge Bradley's casting vote in the electoral commission may sitting in Newark, New Jersey, for the western circuit of Texas; that Judge Bradley's

Neither M'Clure nor Clayton were up as witnesses, and Wilshire was so sick as to be unable to attend. M'Dermott, who was to follow him, begged for further time, and, it is said, was busy hunting through the department for documentary evidence wherewith to sustain himself. Colonel A. P. Curry was the only witness examined. He said that he was a contractor on the stage route, on the north side of Arkansas river, from Little Rock to Pine Bluff; that Majer John D. Adams called on him and told him he wanted him to throw up the route. This he declined to do, ter, whereupon he agreed and threw up the route, which was thus abolished as a competing route with that by the river. He wrote a letter to the department acquainting it with the fact, whereupon Major Adams was enabled to close a contract for the mail river route which, upon the representations of a special agent, had almost been dropped. Adams's contract was had for two thousand dollars, whereas Curry's was for nine hundollars, whereas Curry's was for nine hundred dollars. M'Dermott will be examined to-morrow, after Wilshire has said all he has to say. Judge M'Clure and Ex-Senator Clayton will very likely be before the committee during the week.

The party is pretty well organized, and the best men in it are hard at work. I believe we will nominate a first-rate man for governor, and then we will win easy enough. We may lose the Memphis district; that is very close and uncertain, but we will gain more than that in the balance of the State.

Mr. Mathews talks confidently, like one who knows, yet I venture to differ with him in one point at least. I think the Memphis district is safe for Casey Young. The work he has done for his district, the work he has tenth congressional district can or will ignore. He was never more useful to us than he is now, and with a ripened experience of four years, he may be depended upon to be more so in 1879 and 1880.

and speculation is rife as to the result—who is to be governor, what congressional districts (if any) are to be lost or gained, and how the Democracy is to come out of the contest—with a whole skin or broken bones? From the following interview, which I copy from the Post, it will be seen that there is one man who believes in the success of our party, except in the Memphis district, where he seems to think we are destined to have some trouble. I hope we may be able to agreeably disappoint him. The interview is as follows:

Colonel Wm. B. Mathews, of Franklin, Tennessee, is in the city, taking in the national capital and congress. Colonel Mathews is one of the good, solid, substantial, old-fashioned citizens of Tennessee. He used to be an old Whig, but finally took his stand with the Democrats, and he has become strongly attached to Democratic principles. Somewhat More Hopeful Feeling in London Concerning the Meeting of London, March 27.—A London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says: "The situation, so far as regards the meeting of the congress, is much improved by the assurances that Lord Derby has received from Count Schouvaloff in the past few hours. Count Schouvaloff kept Russia's negative to England's demand, regarding the submission of the treaty to a congress, in his pocket, having learned that the consequences of such a response would be serious, and did not deliver it until he got authority to give Lord liver it until he got authority to give Lord Derby certain assurances and explanations. THE TIMES POINTS OUT THE DANGERS OF NO MEETING OF THE PEACE CONGRESS.

LONDON, March 27.—The government has

for additional horse-boats, to be delivered good management."

Q.—What do you mean by good management. Colonel? A.—Well, you see the people of our State are all divided on the question of our State debt. There's one faction that wants to repudiate the debt right out; another faction say the debt is a just one, but we can't pay it and oughtn't to; and still another faction are willing to pay or make an acceptable compromise.

Q.—And this has divided the Democratic immediately.

The Times says: "To surrender the hope of the congress is to abandon the eastern question to the drifts and currents of separate jealousies and excitements, and to throw away the means of submitting it to quiet consideration. To sacrifice substantial principles, even, for the sake of avoiding such a danger, should be the object of all the governments, that of Russia included, to promote the meeting of congress by all means acceptable compromise.

Q.—Is there any danger of Savage getting the nomination? A.—I don't think so, armies on a war-footing for some years Russia.

The Berlin Post, which prints nothing political without a purpose, and which is one of Prince Bismarck's organs, says: "The failure of the congress would probably result in Russia and England remaining at peace, but arming for war. These prolonged armaments England can infinitely better afford than Russia, who would be reduced to exhaustion were she obliged to maintain her of settling the Difficulties Between Mexico and the United States minister.

Russia cannot attack England, while England is perfectly in a position to bide her time. The czar will probably be driven to extend his conquests in the interval, the better to be prepared for the collision when it does occur. But in such a case Austria and Greece would join England to protect their own interests. As to Germany, she will never fight for Russia's or any other foreign interests. Q.—Will your State debt question enter into the congressional contest? A.—Yes, it will to a greater or less extent, and it can't be kept out. In some localities the debt question is brought in the canvass for the most unimportant offices.

Q.—Is not the Republican party disorganized in your State? A.—Yes; it is badly mixed up, and that may help us a good deal. The Republicans are divided on the debt question, too. What we are most afraid of is the Independent dodge. We don't want any Independents to be elected to congress if we can help it. We want straightout Democrats.

London, March 27.—The Times's correspondent at Vienna says that General Ignatieff's purposes are unknown, but probably, as a person most familiar with the treaty of San Stefano, he comes to explain its scope and show how it can be modified in the interests of Austria; but as the Austrian government is perfectly capable of judging of these matters for itself, General Ignatieff is not more likely to succeed in this than in the two former missions. Russia, in answer to England's latest question, merely says that the government adheres to its former views. This does not sound very promising, but it is still thought here that the reply will not close all interchange of opinion. LONDON, March 27 .- The 7 imes's corre-

Hall, To-Morrow Night.

Мкмрнів, March 27, 1878.

GENTLEMEN—Your favor of this date, inviting me to deliver a public address at the Memphis club hall, at such time as I may indicate, on the subject of the Southern historical society, is received, and is, of course, highly appreciated. I will be pleased, in compliance with your kind request, to address the people of Memphis on the importance of perpetuating Confederate history and the work of the Southern historical society in that behalf, on Friday evening next (twenty-ninth instant) at eight o'clock. Very truly and respectfully. and respectfully, GEO. D. JOHNSTON.

is an Obstacle in the Way of Settling the Difficulties Betacks made on him.

The French are doing everything to throw the Mexican government into a hostile atti-tude toward the United States. They fear a commercial treaty will be made with the United States which would be injurious to their interests, as all the commerce of Mexico is now in European hands. Archbishop Labastida, of the City of Mexico, has been created a cardinal. He is the TAXES.

A LL non-resident tax-payers of Crittenden county will take notice that I will not be in Memphis, at any time, for the purpose of collecting the taxes for 1877, owing to the fact that the great amount of back tax on railroad lands to be collected will necessitate the presence of the clerk and the records of his office. Time expires for paying taxes April 20, 1878.
